

Campaign finance resources

An incomplete list of where to get data and information

By Ken McCall

Dayton Daily News

Government and non-profit sources

Federal Election Commission: <http://www.fec.gov/>

IRE's Campaign Finance Information Center: <http://www.campaignfinance.org/>

Center for Public Integrity: <http://www.publicintegrity.org/>

Center for Responsive Politics: <http://www.opensecrets.org/home/index.asp>

Common Cause: <http://www.commoncause.org/index.htm>

Annenberg Public Policy Center, University of Pennsylvania, an online study of legislative print and television issue advertising inside the Capital Beltway.: <http://appcpenn.org/issueads/>

Mother Jones magazine's MoJo 400: http://mojones.com/coinop_congress/

The Institute on Money in State Politics: www.followthemoney.org

Your friendly state secretary of state or other elections official.

: For example, the Ohio Secretary of State

<http://www.sos.state.oh.us/sos/campFin/index.html>

: (Check the state lookup on IRE's CFIC site mentioned above.)

For Profit organizations:

Dwight L. Morris & Associates: www.campaignfinanceanalysisproject.com

PoliticalMoneyLine, the home of FECinfo and Tray.com:
<http://www.politicalmoneyline.com/>